

Historical English Linguistics at Zurich and Beyond - 3

Friday, 12 October 2018
RAA-G-15, Rämistrasse 59

Programme

9:00 Coffee

09:30 Alpo Honkapohja, U of Edinburgh/ U of Zurich
The distribution of that-contractors in early Middle English, with special reference to Latin and Anglo-Norman manuscript context

10:10 Johanna Vogelsanger, U of Zurich
Syntactic changes in a prose adaptation of the metrical Chronicle of Robert of Gloucester

10:50 Jonas Keller, U of Zurich
French loans and grammatical gender in Early Middle English

11:30 Raffaella Baechler, U of Edinburgh
Preservation of gender in Early Middle English

12:10 Lunch

13:30 Richard Ingham, U of Westminster, keynote:
Change-of-state and psych verb anticausatives in Anglo-Norman: Contact influence on Middle English?

14:30 Eric Haeberli, U of Geneva
Verb third in 'strict' verb second contexts in Old English

15:10 Coffee

15:30 Anita Auer, U of Lausanne
English subjunctive constructions revisited: A historical and corpus approach

16:10 Magdalena Leitner, U of Zurich
The pragmatics of advice in the British Apollo (1708-1711)

16:50 Olga Timofeeva, U of Zurich
The English Decalogue and everyday Bible translation in the 13th-14th centuries

18:00 Dinner

Q. What is the Reason that at the sight of some Eatables, a thin Water or Spittle arises in the Mouth?
A. It is caus'd from the Communion of the Nerves of the Eyes and Palate, which arise and run along together in one common Trunk, till they are distributed to their respective Parts, amongst which there is a certain Sympathy or Consent of Action.

Q. What is the Reason that at the sight of some Eatables, a thin Water or Spittle arises in the Mouth?
A. It is caus'd from the Communion of the Nerves of the Eyes and Palate, which arise and run along together in one common Trunk, till they